Built to Last

Hamptons homebuilder Greg D'Angelo Construction has earned a reputation of integrity and longevity, collaborating with architects and clients to create exceptional custom homes.

As a college student, Greg D'Angelo worked part time with the carpentry team at his university. It was there that a coworker noticed his budding passion and invited him to work side jobs on weekends.

"I fell in love with the work," he says. "Working hard and seeing what we accomplished became so satisfying."

The excitement he developed at the start has never faded. Now more than 37 years into his career as president of Greg D'Angelo Construction, he finds the same gratification in creating dream homes in close collaboration with the client, architect, and entire project team.

"Clients are truly an integral part of the process. They often attend jobsite meetings, ensuring that the project is true to their specifications while our team affirms the integrity of the workmanship," says D'Angelo. "It's a fluid, triangular relationship that evolves throughout the process."

A testament to the foundation D'Angelo has built is the commitment and experience of his team members, many of whom have been with the company for over 15 years. As a result of the development of this expert team, Greg D'Angelo Construction is one of the most respected builders in the area as the firm seeks to not only build homes but positive experiences.

"When I started, I wanted quality. This isn't just a transaction; it's service,"

D'Angelo explains. "Clients aren't buying a house from us—they're hiring us as construction experts and trust that we will stand behind the work years down the line."
